PORTLAND SELECT

A USA-MADE COLLECTION FOR THE MODERN EXPLORER

There's something to be said for working with your hands – putting in an honest day and having something tangible to show for it. There's also something to be said for escaping the grind of the city to breathe fresh mountain air. Student of ecology and volunteer "trailkeeper," Rachel Petersen, and business owner and mechanic, Dee Gipson, know the need for that balance. Driven by their varied interests — from recycled fashion and music, to classic motorcycles and salmon ecosystems of the Northwest — they represent the spirit of craftsmanship and adventure in Portland, Oregon.

Charles Danner also understood this balance. He started making shoes in 1932, but when he recognized the need for durable boots to support the rapidly growing Pacific Northwest timber industry, he reestablished his business in Portland to handcraft a quality product. And as folks in the Northwest began to explore the wilds of the region, Danner was there to create footwear designed for trails. For decades, Danner has been the chosen boot for the longshoremen of the Columbia River, Northwest loggers, carpenters and Coast Range hikers.

Danner Portland Select was specifically created for the worker, the entrepreneur and the modern explorer. Made in the USA, as they have been for nearly 90 years, with premium full-grain leather, waterproof GORE-TEX liners and rugged Vibram® outsoles, these boots are built for those who log the hours — in the workshop or on the trails of the Cascades and beyond.

CRAFTED AND RECRAFTED IN THE USA

Every pair of Portland Select boots is built with care in our Portland, Ore. factory, drawing from the knowledge and skill accumulated over eight decades of boot making with the finest quality components. Our commitment to handcraft each pair of boots in the USA means we are able to mind each detail, down to the last stitch.

We believe a pair of boots that is well cared for should last for years — and we back that belief with our Recrafting services. Our skilled craftsmen and women can often give new life to a pair of boots after years of wear, replacing outsoles, reconditioning leather and restitching seams. From simple part replacements to major overhauls, we can often help get your boots back on the trail, workshop or wherever your next adventure takes you.

WITH A PASSION FOR THE FAST-PACED LIFESTYLE, DEE GIBSON FINDS A PLACE TO PAUSE AMONG THINGS THAT ARE TIMELESS– MOTORCYCLES, CARS AND DEEP CUTS OF MUSIC

MAKING TIME FOR THE TIMELESS

DEE GIBSON
Family Man, Builder, DJ, Mechanic

Dee Gibson surrounds himself with timeless style — whether in the form of music, construction or vehicles built to last. When he isn't hanging with his 3-year-old son, you'll find him working hard on a construction site, spinning records at a Portland club or restoring classic Chevys and motorcycles in the shop.

Growing up in Georgia, Dee says, "I wanted to see what the other side of the U.S. was like." He packed up and traveled West, stopping to explore cities and sites along the way. When he eventually landed in Portland, Oregon, he decided to stay put.

"I like it here," he says. "It's chill." But while he's drawn to the relaxed vibe of the city, he isn't one to slow down. A builder by day, he recently cofounded a construction company, which he describes as doing "a little bit of everything," from remodels and landscaping to demos and dry wall. For the last nine years, he's also moonlighted as a DJ at special events and various venues, like Portland's 5 & Dime, where he's known for his comprehensive taste in tunes. "I just love music," he says. "There's always got to be some hip hop, country, funk, soul…."

As a business owner and father of a toddler, his free moments may be few and far between — still, he manages to carve out time for his hobbies and interests. In addition to his love of music, Dee has a passion and talent for bringing quality vehicles back to life, namely trucks and Harley-Davidsons. He and his brother recently worked together to restore a 1971 Chevy C10. Whether refurbishing, building, entertaining or creating, he laughs, "I'm always working on something."

30-PLUS YEARS OF HIKING BOOT GREATNESS

Ask a seasoned backpacker what the ideal hiking boot looks like, and you're bound to hear a description of the Mountain Light. That's because for more than 30 years, the Mountain Light set the standard for every new product that hit the market. And in all that time, nothing ever dethroned the original. Today, we're proud to re-introduce this classic boot. Every single pair is built by hand in Portland, Ore., with full-grain leather, Vibram® Kletterlift outsoles, and optional waterproof GORE-TEX liners. The result is a classic design that provides unmatched comfort and support.

MODERN UPGRADES TO OUR CLASSIC DANNER LIGHT

Made in our Portland, Ore., factory, the Danner Ridge was created to be a lighter weight and more versatile hiking boot that still reflects our classic Danner styling. Built with light hikes and city streets in mind, the overall design is inspired by our original Danner Light with an updated construction method that integrates the shank, midsole and lasting board into a single piece. This new, unified platform, combined with a Vibram® outsole, allowed us to significantly reduce weight and create an out-of-the-box comfort that doesn't come standard with most classic hiking boots.

FROM FASHION TO THE DEPARTMENT OF FISH AND WILDLIFE, RACHEL'S PATH HAS RUN A WINDING COURSE – AND SHOWS NO SIGNS OF SLOWING

FROM FASHION TO FORESTRY

RACHEL PETERSEN
Trailkeeper and Student of Ecological Restoration

Born and raised in Portland, Oregon, Rachel's varied interests embody some of the best the Northwest has to offer. She grew up hiking in the Columbia Gorge with her family every weekend, and she still spends as much time outside as possible. "I absolutely love the Pacific Northwest," she says. "I also like the rain. The colder the better, too. Especially if I'm in the forest while it's coming down."

Mountain Light
Cascade Clovis | Style #31545

BAGD

For nearly 20 years, she managed boutiques in Portland — save for a two-and-a-half-year stint in Brooklyn, where she longed for more green space and less concrete. "I definitely prefer recycled fashion over new, unless it is something I know I'm going to use for a while and get a lot of wear out of," she says. "Like, denim or good shoes!" On her days off, she often worked to maintain trails with Trailkeepers of Oregon. The first time she ever volunteered, she says, "I woke up at 6 a.m. and spent the day moving rocks for eight hours in the freezing rain. It was the most gratifying activity I had ever participated in."

She enjoyed her volunteer work so much, Rachel decided to switch gears professionally. She says, "I figured, if I loved getting up on my days off after working 45 hours a week to do manual labor in extreme temperatures for free more than selling dresses and jeans to women in S.E. Portland, then I should maybe think about a career change." So, she went back to college, where she's currently finishing a degree in natural resources with a focus on ecological restoration. She is drawn to restoring salmonid-dependent ecosystems, and this winter she'll be doing salmon surveying with the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife. "I still have a long road ahead of me," she adds. "But at least I know it will be fun, interesting and most of all, rewarding."

30-PLUS YEARS OF HIKING BOOT GREATNESS

The USA-made Mountain Light hiking boot is legendary for its unmatched quality, durability and support. GORE-TEX lining provides waterproof protection. The Vibram® Kletterlift outsole offers lightweight comfort, as well as superb shock absorption, and guarantees great traction and stability on both wet and dry surfaces. Danner's famous stitchdown construction provides a wider platform for stability and the lace-to-toe system provides a secure fit. The women's Mountain Light Cascade was featured in the Fox Searchlight Pictures release WILD in 2014.

As far as this boot is concerned, it's still the golden era of backpacking. To build it, Danner bootmakers sought out leathers similar to those used on the original Danner Light, introduced in 1978. This classic-inspired boot features stitchdown construction and a Vibram® Kletterlift outsole. The Danner Light is still built by hand, in our Portland, Ore., factory with rich full grain leather, denier nylon panels and waterproof GORE-TEX liners.

MADE IN USA

Made in USA, Danner Portland Select boots are built by hand in our factory in Portland, Ore. Drawing from the knowledge and skills accumulated over eight decades of boot making, our trained craftsmen and women construct each pair of boots with precision and extreme attention to detail. With a focus on quality, performance and durability, Danner boots are made to last.

STITCHDOWN CONSTRUCTION

Handcrafted to provide a wider platform, our legendary stitchdown construction offers increased stability underfoot. Many of our stitchdown boots can be recrafted.

GORE-TEX

Oregon's lush but rough terrain was the perfect backdrop to inspire a high performance boot, designed to keep feet dry and comfortable in the most extreme of environments. An innovator since its inception, in 1979, Danner became the first company to use GORE-TEX to build a 100% waterproof, breathable boot.

VIBRAM

For more than 50 years, Danner has featured premium Vibram® outsoles on our boots to provide the best traction available for hiking and everyday use. Tried and true designs such as the Kletterlift outsole are featured throughout the line. New technologies such as Vibram® Megagrip and Arctic Grip are now available in some Portland Select styles, providing extra grip in wet and icy conditions.

FIT

Portland Select styles offer a roomier fit for relaxed comfort while still offering rugged support and stability. Our EE sizing is not as wide as others, so it offers the most universal fit for casual, everyday wear. We recommend sizing down a half size for the best fit.

RECRAFTING

You can go a long way in a pair of Danner boots. And since many of our boots can be recrafted by replacing the outsole, reworking the leather and restitching the seams, you can go even farther. Our craftsmen and women can provide everything from simple part replacement and leather care to major overhauls. For information on Danner's recrafting services, please visit danner.com/recrafting
